An Annual Report of the parish is scheduled to be presented on September 17th after weekend Mass. Discussions continue on what to do with the Rectory. Should it be rented, sold, or other. The Joint Council made cost and income comparison sheet of renting vs. selling the rectory. A realtor was invited to the meeting to provide feedback on the rectory as to what we could ask for a selling price, what maintenance would need to occur prior to selling, and other considerations to take into account should we decide to sell it. Plan was created on what actions to take in communicating information/recommendation and providing a forum for questions/answers.

Catholic Ministries Appeal provides life-long faith formation for adults, forming them into missionary disciples, provides resources to strengthen marriages and families, outreach to the poor, supports multimedia communications for evangelization. Please prayerfully consider how you might give to this year's CMA and be assured that the dollars raised are donor-restricted and only serve to fund the many ministries of the diocese. Please note that if our parish doesn't reach the set goal, the parish needs to pay from the general account/offertory. So please consider whatever contribution you may wish to reach this important goal. Thus, we can have a reduction in our parish assessment and also avail tax exemption. Together we can make it. Please use the flyer and envelopes that are at the narthex of the church for more info and payment details. Thank you.

My Dear Parishioners,

It's said that we never really grow up until both of our parents have died. I suspect that most who have had to walk that path recognize some truth there. So when the Gospel advises us to turn our backs on father and mother and family and even on ourselves—maybe it's not about rejecting but about becoming able to live the gospel more maturely, about releasing our grip on the past and growing up. Maybe letting go of childish things is the cost and also relying on the wisdom of the God who waits patiently for us.

One of life's tasks, it seems, is to learn the balancing act between loving without possessiveness and relinquishing without indifference or abandonment. In truth, perhaps we never really learn to balance the two. We mostly lean in the direction opposite where we are at the time, until we suspect we may have leaned too far and switch directions. It's a wisdom we come to that's worthwhile for parenting but also for marriage and one's profession and growing old and just about everything else that life serves up.

This balancing is also at the heart of faith and discipleship. It's how we come to recognize the hand of God in our lives, by living in such a way that God has the freedom to rearrange the pieces and so bring us to fuller life. It's the wisdom that teaches us how to be a disciple but also the sort of discipleship that brings us to wisdom. It's also the light shining forth in today's reading from the book of Wisdom. "Renounce your possessions," the Gospel insists (Luke 14:33). We can't say that we always have. Rather, it seems that we've often done more accumulating than renouncing. And yet each accumulation may have made room for one more way of being made new as the disciples we all are called to become.

Keep Smiling!
